THE 1971 HORNET

*Morris College
Sumter, South Carolina*

George W. Hampton, Editor-in-Chief

DEDICATION

DR. ODELL RICHARDSON REUBEN 1918-1970

An able administrator and eminent scholar, a devoted family man and noble community leader — these phrases describe the sentiments that the Morris College family felt for the late President O. R. Reuben to whom the 1971-72 edition of the HORNET is lovingly dedicated. He was first an able administrator:

Dr. Reuben was elected the seventh President of Morris College in 1948. His tenure as president spanned twenty-two years. During this period he consistently maintained and improved the physical plant and the educational offerings — often during times of crises. He knew how to direct the efficient utilization of the limited operational funds provided mostly by the Baptist Educational and Missionary Convention of South Carolina and donors. Tangible evidence of his successful administration is reflected in the physical plant expansion. During Dr. Reuben's administration, six of the twelve major buildings that comprise the campus were constructed: two dormitories for women, a student center, a gymnasium, men's dormitory, the present education building (formerly a science building), and a modern science-language building. Other physical plant improvements include a stadium and a fence erected around the forty acre campus. The value of the physical plant quadrupled. He upgraded the administrative practices and policies of the Institution by creating, among other things, offices for financial and institutional development, an office of student affairs and an office of career counseling. In 1968, Dr. Reuben launched the multi-million dollar development program in which the College is presently engaged.

An Eminent Scholar:

Dr. Reuben attended the elementary schools of Silverstreet, South Carolina and graduated from Drayton Street High School of Newberry. He was a Magna Cum Laude graduate of Benedict College with the A.B. and B.D. degrees, and he received the Masters Degree in Sacred Theology from Oberlin University. He earned his Ph.D. in religion from Duke University. Dr. Reuben's concern for quality education was far from being personal. The fact that he established a program of financial assistance to faculty members for graduate and post graduate study attests to this concern. He encouraged students to adopt as their motto, "Strive for excellence in all academic pursuits; nothing less than your best is worthy of your labor."

A Devoted Family Man:

Strongly devoted to his wife and children, Dr. Reuben gave himself and the fruits of his labor with deepest love, manly responsibility and unforgettable gentleness. He understood his family as a part of the foundation of society and undergirded it with the enduring power of prayer and faith. His concern nevertheless extended far beyond his immediate family to the families of his faculty, his students and the community at large. He spent many hours counseling and sharing with people everywhere.

A Noble Community Leader:

In community and civic affairs Dr. Reuben was uniquely effective. He was an active, scholarly Christian leader in human relations and social welfare activities. He worked with national, state and local government officials and with various civic and religious organizations to promote humanitarian concerns. He was secretary of the South Carolina Christian Action Council, and was a member of the South Carolina Council on Human Relations. His concern for his fellow man was far reaching. As a result, he worked in the local Sumter City-County Planning Commission, the Moore Elementary School Lay Board of Visitors, the NAACP, the Odd Fellows, the American Academy of Political Science, and the Masonic Lodge. As a preacher of the Gospel of Jesus Christ, Dr. Reuben exerted a positive influence. By precepts and examples, his primary message was one of tolerance and understanding invigorated with the warning that individuals and institutions must be reborn.

IN MEMORIAM: DR. ODELL R. REUBEN

What dark the shattered dream incurs
At evanescent death,
That woos the brutish catafalque
And stalks the very span of hope.

How warm comes breath that final space
And hesitates at last,
Gives once when gift is last to give
That separate hush that muffles pain.

O pale and ancient sordid Death!
O frail and harmless villainy!
The veiling lowers once again
And joins the soul in endless peace.

FOREWORD

This edition of the Hornet is dedicated to our beloved and esteemed late President, Dr. O. R. Reuben, who departed this life on the eve of the fall convocation. Suffering pained bereavement, the College community, notwithstanding, continued the year's work, as he would have had it no less so. And though we sorely missed the warm, outgoing friendliness and interest this elegant, gallant, Christian gentleman-scholar extended as he walked among us each day, all facets of the College community strived to maintain the functions of the College.

These tasks were made easier through the capable administration of Dr. Henry E. Hardin, a distinguished scholar, able administrator and associate of the late President from his college days, who was appointed Acting President.

Exercising high caliber administrative ability and educational leadership, both of which were undergirded by dedication and loyalty to the college, Dr. Hardin successfully guided the academic year to a close.

The 1970-71 Hornet, therefore, represents the effort to show what Morris College was like during the academic year. As a matter of fact, it includes the bitter as well as the sweet, and if a theme had been designated, it would simply have been "Life at Morris College, 1970-71."

For helping me develop this record, I extend my warm thanks to the staff members who worked diligently to make it a reality. Those members are Perry Smith, Assistant Editor; Minnie Glover, Sylvia Trappier, Ida Dash, Boisey Sweeney, Edward Mason and Clarence Alston. Thank you for everything "gang."

Without further delay we invite you to share with us the experiences of the past year.

George W. Hampton,
Editor-in-Chief

The Alma Mater

Morris our College dear
with hearts all filled with cheer
we come to thee —
Throughout life's checkered ways
Thy name we'll ever praise
Teacher of youthful ways
All hail to thee.

When from our homes we came —
To own thy lofty name
Breathe courage free
Parents and teachers dear
Calmed by the lack of fear
Pay homage through the years
All hail to thee.

MRS. BESSIE A. PINSON

November 22, 1970 dates the end of the terminal illness that severed the long intimate association of "Mother Pinson," as Mrs. Pinson became known, with Morris College. Mrs. Pinson's association with the College dated from her youth and high school days and included her college years, during which she married one of the College's most brilliant professors, Dr. Ira David Pinson, who later became, in 1930, the College's third president.

Mrs. Pinson made signal contributions in support of her husband's able administration and to the College as college hostess, and innovative classroom teacher. In the latter case, she introduced new programs in elementary education and in home economics. Her activities included denominational work through which she brought her creative genius to the Baptists in various demonstrations of arts, pageants and crafts. She promoted the development of students' talents through plays and other dramatizations which she wrote and directed. Her interest in creative writing was a continuous process. Even during her last months, she gallantly tried to revise and complete a book of poems, aphorisms and memoirs she had written over the years.

During the eighteen years before her demise, Mrs. Pinson was known to the Morris College Community as "Mother Pinson." In this role, she graciously evidenced the concern and loyalty for the College Family that undergirded her nurturing of three surviving sons: Eugene Pinson, Professor of Music, South Carolina State College; James Pinson, Artist, New York City, N.Y.; and David Pinson, Montreal, Canada.

We will remember her as a lady in the fullest genuine sense of the word, an artist both literally and figuratively, and a Christian humanist, whose unrealized dream was to have erected on her property a shrine in memory of her beloved son Sylvester who was fatally injured along with her husband in 1939, whereby passers, who prompted by need for spiritual meditation, could pause in a quiet cool place to communicate with Him to whom she directed her life.

MRS. SARAH ZOLINE LAWRENCE DANIELS

The passing of Mrs. Sarah Zoline Daniels on July 24, 1970 brought to a close a long, distinguished and extensive career of devout Christian service.

The widow of the late Reverend Arthur Daniels, she is survived by an adopted daughter, and several sisters and brothers.

Mrs. Daniels held the L.I. degree from Allen University and the B.S. degree from Hampton Institute. Advanced studies were completed at the University of Chicago and Hampton Institute.

Though widely recognized for her efforts to provide the kind of leadership which was gravely needed as a pioneer in education and a promoter of brotherhood and social justices, Mrs. Daniels was better known to the Morris College family as field representative (1948-50), and as dean of women and instructor in education (1950-61). She is credited with revolutionizing the personnel services of the College and for providing the broad foundation upon which succeeding programs were built.

It is not with grief that Mrs. Daniels will be remembered by the host of students and colleagues whose lives she touched and influenced, but as one who enriched the heritage of Morris College by her uncompromising standards of excellence, the ability to discharge her duties with poise and power and by her example of dedicated and Christian leadership.

STUDENT PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

There are four norms that I find a complete necessity for Blacks to develop and/or maintain. They are:

- 1) ACCOUNTABILITY — We Blacks must be honest and responsible for our own learning; we must express our informed feelings;
- 2) SOLIDARITY — Blacks must be straightforward and direct; there must be willingness to listen;
- 3) LIBERATION — Blacks must take calculated risks; we must know why and how we are taking risks; we must learn to accept feedback;
- 4) SURVIVAL — As Blacks furthering our education, we are sometimes given to "in" rhetoric but we must operate logically and efficiently competitively to affect significant social, political or economic improvement for our lot which, not coincidentally, includes the lot of many other minority groups in this country.

Morris College provides an educational system, which if fully exploited, will help us realize these norms that, I suggest, should be seen as supplementary to the College's major function: provision of a Liberal Arts education. It is my sincere hope that thus equipped, you enter the chaotic world of the 1970's dedicated to serving as you have been dedicated to learning.

Who's Who

WHO'W WHO AMONG STUDENTS IN AMERICAN UNIVERSITIES AND COLLEGES

Who's Who Among Students in American Universities is an organization that seeks to provide recognition for college students who have distinguished themselves by meritorious leadership in their academic field and service to their institution and community.

College seniors, juniors and graduate students matriculated in four-year undergraduate institutions or graduate schools are eligible for nomination to Who's Who. The number of students selected by each institution is determined by the organization and is based on a percentage of the institution's enrollment. Selections are based on nominations submitted by a committee composed of faculty, staff and students.

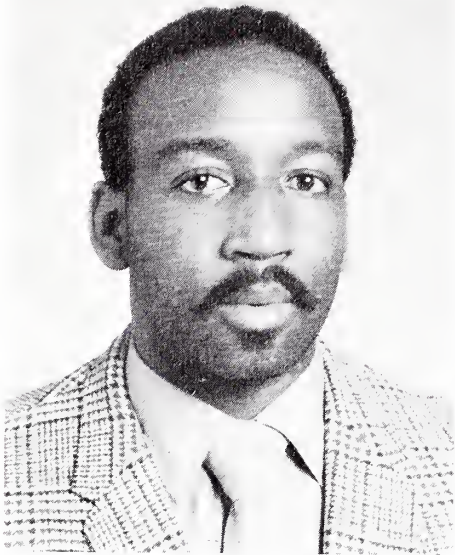

Inclusion in the annual directory which is published by the organization is a sought after and valuable accomplishment.
